NEWS FROM TOWER HAMLETS COUNCIL AND YOUR COMMUNITY

'I CAME BECAUSE YOU INSPIRE ME'

Michelle Obama praises pupils after ecstatic welcome

BY JESSICA ODUBAYO

MICHELLE Obama, America's First Lady, received a rapturous reception when she visited Mulberry School for Girls last week.

Mrs Obama chose Mulberry to launch Let Girls Learn, a partnership between the UK and US which aims to advance girls' education around the world.

"Why would the First Lady choose Tower Hamlets, this community and this school?" Mrs Obama asked the pupils.

"I'm here because girls like you inspire me."

Hundreds of cheering pupils welcomed Mrs Obama to the Stepney school on Tuesday, June 16.

The First Lady described them as smart, powerful, creative, accomplished and beautiful. And she talked about the similarities she shared with them when she was growing up.

The wife of the US President spoke about growing up in a working class neighbourhood of Chicago, where people worked hard to make ends meet, struggled to balance family responsibilities with school work and had to overcome obstacles in order to achieve.

Her dad was a pump operator, her mum a homemaker.

Mrs Obama recalled how she and her brother struggled to complete their homework in a small, busy household, frequented by members of their extended family.

Birthday Honours for three public servants

BY SUSAN MULLIGAN

THREE local heroes have been recognised in the Queen's Birthday Honours List.

Cllr Peter Golds, already an OBE, was made a Commander of Order of the British Empire for services to local government.

"I am delighted, surprised and humbled to have been recommended for the award," Cllr Golds said.

"Over the past year, I have represented local government on the Magna Carta Commemoration Committee and this, along with service as a councillor, has demonstrated the incredible amount of work undertaken by ordinary citizens from so many walks of life.

"I hope to be able to continue public service for many years to come."

Patrice Canavan, head teacher at Oaklands School, was made an OBE for services to education.

Ms Canavan said: "I am proud and honoured.

"Nothing is achieved alone and everyone at Oaklands and those I have worked with in the past 36 years can feel a part of this."

Former council chief executive Kevan Collins, now heading the Education Endowment Foundation, was knighted for services to education.

He said: "I am truly honoured to receive this recognition.

"Since starting out as a

Oaklands School head teacher Patrice Canavan

primary teacher in Tower Hamlets, I've been privileged to work with many fantastic organisations and people dedicated to improving education for children and young people.

"It's been a joy to witness the collective will of schools up and down the country to tackle the massive issue of educational inequality in our system and improve outcomes for children from disadvantaged communities."

First Lady Michelle Obama tells pupils they can achieve their dreams in spite of adversity

I have so many ambitions. The First Lady made me believe that even in the position I am in, I can still achieve those ambitions because she managed it.”

“There wasn’t much privacy and it was hard to concentrate,” the First Lady told pupils.

“I used to wake up at 4am to finish my homework, as that was when the house was quiet.”

Mrs Obama, who visited Britain with her two daughters, Sasha and Malia, said she was a working class kid from a good community with limited resources.

But that didn’t stop her dreaming of going to the best university in the US, despite being told by some people that she was setting her sights too high.

levels and not many professional role models to look up to.

“The fact that I was a girl and black didn’t help either,” Mrs Obama said.

“When I see you, I see myself, your story is my story.”

As part of the Let Girls Learn commitment, the US and UK governments will support the education of girls in countries affected by conflict and crisis, such as Democratic Republic of Congo, Sierra Leone and Liberia.

And Mrs Obama urged pupils to be part of the conversation, to break down barriers and become role models, in order to help and ensure that other girls could have the opportunity to be educated.

Dr Vanessa Ogden, head teacher at Mulberry School for Girls, said it was a great honour to welcome Mrs Obama.

greatest, most inspiring women of our time and her visit is an honour for us,” Dr Ogden said.

“Her use of her platform as First Lady to drive change for girls and to break down barriers in access to education is critical for a civilized world.

“The moral imperative is clear and the business case supports it. This is the call to get behind her global campaign.”

The First Lady and head teacher were joined by Julia Gillard, former prime minister of Australia and current chair of the Global Partnership for Education, to take part in a question and answer session with students, Twitter followers and Peace Corps volunteers.

Earlier in the day, Mrs Obama engaged in a round-table discussion at the school, with secretary of state for international development Justine Greening.

Tower Hamlets’ schools have seen a huge improvement in performance in recent years.

All the borough’s secondary schools have been rebuilt or refurbished under the council’s £320m Building Schools for the Future programme.

Mayor of Tower Hamlets John Biggs said: “It’s fantastic that the First Lady chose to visit one of our borough’s excellent schools today. Following a major transformation programme, our schools are now internationally recognised and delivering some of the best results in the country.

“I am sure the First Lady welcomed the chance to meet some of the inspirational young people our borough is rightly proud of and I know they will have found her visit an incentive for further success, in school and in life.”

News in brief

Ramadan begins

THIS month, Muslim residents will be observing Ramadan – the ninth month of the Islamic calendar when worshippers do not eat or drink during daylight hours.

Ramadan began on June 17, which means residents observing it began their first day of fasting at sunrise on June 18.

Fasting will end on either Friday, July 17 or Saturday, July 18, as there are either 29 or 30 days in a lunar month.

Ramadan is a time of community; it is the custom to invite neighbours and friends to share evening meals – iftar – and recite special Tarawih prayers in congregation.

Mayor John Biggs said: “To everyone observing Ramadan, I wish you Ramadan Mubarak.

“Ramadan is a time for contemplation and generosity; a time for encouraging empathy and compassion for others – and these are values that are important to us all.

“It is important to stand united in our desire for respect and peace within our community, and to celebrate the diversity of Tower Hamlets.”

£5,000 for Nepal

A DOCKLANDS restaurant raised nearly £5,000 for victims of the recent earthquakes in Nepal when it hosted a charity event.

More than 100 people attended the dinner at Nakon Thai in Dock Road.

The event featured Thai folk dance performances, live music, and an auction.

Neighbours’ dance

RESIDENTS are invited to an afternoon of fun and good company at a tea dance hosted by community organisation Neighbours in Poplar.

The event will take place at 1pm at St Matthias Community Centre, 113 Poplar High Street on Thursday, June 25.

Mary from the 4 Counties will provide entertainment. Tea will be served at 2pm and the event will end with a certificate presentation to volunteers.

Soap star on a rope

ACTOR Larry Lamb launched himself off the highest helipad in Europe to support London's Air Ambulance – the charity that delivers an advanced trauma care to critically injured people in the capital.

The helipad stands 284ft above ground level at The Royal London Hospital in Whitechapel. Larry (pictured), who is known for playing Archie Mitchell in EastEnders and Mick in Gavin and Stacey, was one of more than 200 daredevils who took part in the annual abseil. Participants also included BBC London presenter Victoria Hollins, the charity's chief operating officer Charles Newitt, and Edward Youens, a 92 year old great-grandfather.

Larry said: "Supporting London's Air Ambulance is a decision I made after learning it is a charity. You never know if and when you will need them."

"I'm hugely proud and full of admiration for the doctors, pilots, paramedics and operational teams from London's Air Ambulance who work tirelessly around the clock to save lives."

The charity is currently fundraising for a second emergency medical helicopter, which will enable it to extend daylight flying hours in the summer months and reach an estimated 400 more patients per year. Donate at www.yourhelicopter.london or text HELICOPTER to 70800 to give £5 to the appeal.

Playgrounds to be smoke free

BY STEFAN SWIFT

ALL children's playgrounds in the borough will be smoke free areas.

The scheme was launched on Tuesday, June 16 and signs will now be displayed at all playgrounds in Tower Hamlets to ensure they remain free from smokers.

The plan has been implemented to protect the health of children and their parents.

The council's Smoke Free team – part of the consumer and business regulations service at the council – funded and implemented the idea.

The Smoke Free team has worked closely with the council's public health and parks teams to ensure children do not suffer from the effects of second hand smoke.

A new no-smoking sign was unveiled at Mile End Play Park by Dr Somen Banerjee, director

Dr Somen Banerjee joins council staff, parents and children at Mile End Children's Park to promote the smoke free plan of public health at the council. Dr Banerjee said: "Evidence shows that the more children see smoking when they are young, the more likely they are to become smokers themselves."

"This initiative is an important step towards protecting children from second-hand smoke and preventing them from seeing smoking as a normal, acceptable activity."

"The signs serve as a reminder for residents to think twice about smoking in front of children."

Anyone living or working in Tower Hamlets can access free NHS stop smoking services by visiting www.towerhamlets.gov.uk/stopsmoking

Anybody who falls foul of the new initiative can be given a fixed penalty notice.

STUDENTS from Morpeth, St Paul’s Way and Mulberry secondary schools went to Paris to present a short film they had made. The group has been meeting once a week at Queen Mary University as part of a programme run by Cinematheque Francaise, supported by the British Film Institute (BFI), and led by Marcus Hibbert, a Mulberry teacher.

Funding for the project, which focused on making and watching films that use gaps and spaces to tell stories, came from THAMES, the borough’s arts and music education service. The programme, called Le Cinema cent ans de jeunesse, runs in France, Spain, Portugal, Belgium, Germany, Brazil and Cuba. More than 1,000 young people gather in Paris for three days each June to show their films.

Pupils thrilled to meet US ambassador

STUDENTS at St Paul’s Way Trust School sixth form were thrilled to receive a visit from Matthew Barzun, the US ambassador to the UK.

Ambassador Barzun gave a lively presentation, encouraging students to explore their feelings about the US, both positive and negative. He covered a range of topics including America’s role in international politics, gun crime and the American Dream as well as answering questions from students.

Year 13 pupil Sahra Botan said the ambassador was “really interesting – his response to sometimes controversial issues was very open and he acknowledged what we were saying”. Another student described him as “charismatic – he had a great presence and was very impressive”.

Bow bakers produce prize-winning cakes

BY JESSICA ODUBAYO

APPLE pies, cupcakes and pastries were just some of the delights served up at Marner School’s mouth-watering bake-off.

The event at the Bow School on Monday, June 8 was part of summer science week. The week aims to engage pupils in science in practical and fun ways. This year, the theme was kitchen science, with a focus on chemistry. In order to promote the theme and involve parents as well as children, the school holds a competition where children complete a task at home.

The bake-off had nearly 100 entries and many parents sent in emails with pictures of their children baking at home. Judges Jas Gill, school head cook, Dawn Abela, kitchen assistant and Gary Taylor, premises manager, adopted the names of celebrity chefs and chose winners for each year group, as well as three overall winners. Anastasia Scedrin won the top prize of head teacher for a day and runners-up Zahra Ali, Muhammed Ali, Arijus Krukas, Dawud Matin, Zaiba Sardar and Shafkat Chowdhury will have a tea party with teachers. Head teacher Mary Todd said: “I was overwhelmed with the fantastic response from our children and parents. Many families sent in photos of the baking that they had done together. I am so proud of the effort that was put in. It was a real family event.” The goodies were sold and raised £228 for science week.

It's invaluable what parents can bring to the classroom'

BY SAM GOUGH

PARENTS are returning to education, thanks to a council scheme delivered in partnership with schools.

Thirty-five parents and carers graduated on June 9 from an externally accredited course which makes them eligible to volunteer in their children's schools.

They are all parents of children at Stewart Headlam and St Peter's London Docks primary schools, or Mulberry School for Girls.

The aim of the programme is to increase the number of adults in schools as well as helping parents to gain qualifications and to open up a potential path to future employment.

Roles they will be fulfilling include classroom support, reading with children, escorting children on trips, support in the school library and helping to manage after-school and breakfast clubs.

The graduates were presented with certificates today at the Parents' Advice Centre in Greatorex Street to mark their completion of the 11-week course.

Zina Kristalli is a mother of three from Wapping whose twin boys are in reception at St Peter's London Docks School.

After completing the course, Mrs Kristalli has been volunteering at the school since February.

Parents who completed the course with course organiser Monica Forty

She helps teach the children's PE dance class and assists in teaching English to mothers who were born abroad.

She said: "It's really fantastic, it gives me great pleasure to see the mums happy and the children happy."

"Every parent has a different work background or educational background, they may come from a different country, so all that adds to the different mosaic of a school. It's invaluable what parents can bring"

The course, which has been running for seven years, has been delivered by the council's Parent and Family Support Service and is accredited by the Open College Network.

Parents have to build up a portfolio of work which is moderated by OCN.

The Parent and Family Support Service delivers up to seven courses a year in primary and secondary schools, and has supported 28 parents into employment in the past year through roles including teaching assistants, learning support assistants, mid-day meals supervisors, and after-school play assistants.

Ride Rainbow bus with Pride

RAINBOW Hamlets will lead the health and wellbeing section of the Pride in London parade on Saturday, June 27.

The LGBT charity is decking out a Routemaster bus and parading through the borough before it joins the parade, which starts in Baker Street.

Pride is the city's biggest one-day event and one of the world's biggest LGBT+ (lesbian, gay, bisexual, trans, intersex, queer and questioning) celebrations. Last year more than 750,000 attended and 30,000 people joined the parade.

Jack Gilbert, of Rainbow Hamlets, said "Join us! We also know there are people who find it hard to walk or have young children and hope many of those will come onboard too."

For more details, visit www.rainbowhamlets.org/pride2015/ email pride@rainbowhamlets.org or call 7364 7003.

'Fix it, love it' app update

A NEW, improved version of the council's Find it, Fix it, Love it (FiFiLi) app is now available to download from the App Store and Google Play.

FiFiLi gives residents and visitors the chance to alert the council to something they love about Tower Hamlets or something that needs fixing.

The app gives residents and visitors the chance to highlight areas of the borough that they particularly enjoy.

The council wants members of the public to send photographs of something they love about the borough – a landmark, a quirky shop, beautiful scenery or an activity.

The best images will be selected for the council's Instagram page every Thursday as part of its #loveitTHursday.

The app also allows people to submit concerns directly to the council.

Residents and visitors can instantly tell the council about any issues that need addressing.

This includes things such as anti-social behaviour, crime, rough sleeping, graffiti, fly-tipping, broken play equipment or streetlights, potholes, overflowing bins or anything else worth mentioning.

It is hoped that both residents and visitors to the borough will download the app.

By simply taking a picture of a problem, the app will pinpoint the location of the issue.

This will send the details directly to the correct department within the council, ensuring problems are dealt with swiftly.

The app also allows users to view details of road closures or works in the borough and sign up as a volunteer to help keep the borough clean.

Download the free app now from Apple's App Store or via Google Play.

Symptoms of diabetes

Regular symptoms for both Type 1 and Type 2 diabetes include: increased urination, increased thirst, tiredness, dry mouth and unexplained weight loss.

Useful information

Safer fasting for diabetics

Advice from Tower Hamlets Public Health

DIABETES is a long-term condition that occurs when a person's blood sugar level becomes too high.

There are two kinds of diabetes known as Type 1 and Type 2. Type 1 diabetes is less common and can develop very quickly over the course of weeks or even days, particularly in children and young people.

Type 2 diabetes is very common in Tower Hamlets with more than 14,000 residents living with the condition.

It is estimated that more than 2,000 individuals living in the borough have the disease but have not yet been diagnosed.

However with early diagnosis and expert care people suffering from diabetes can lead normal, healthy lives.

Dr Somen Banerjee, director of public health at the council, said: "Over 70 per cent of Type 2 diabetes cases can be prevented or delayed by adopting healthier lifestyles.

"As Ramadan starts during Diabetes Week this year, it should be seen as an opportunity to focus on eating a healthy diet, stopping smoking and increasing physical activity, after the month-long fast.

"Anyone with diabetes who is thinking of fasting during Ramadan should speak to their GP or practice nurse to discuss how to keep well."

Suggestions for food to eat when breaking fast include:

Complex carbohydrates release energy slowly and are found in grains and seeds, like barley, wheat, oats, cereals, semolina, beans, lentils, wholemeal flour and basmati rice.

Fibre-rich foods are also digested slowly; these include bran, whole wheat, grains and seeds, potatoes with the skin, all types of bread and breakfast cereals, vegetables such as green beans and fruit such as apricots, prunes or figs.

Protein such as lean meat, fish, eggs and lentils.

Vegetables and fresh fruit.

Locally, health professionals have been delivering training sessions for those that work with Muslims planning to fast to provide further information on the causes of diabetes and how to keep healthy throughout the holy month.

Research shows the risk of developing Type 2 diabetes is six times higher for people of South Asian origin compared to those of a European descent.

The large South Asian population in Tower Hamlets contributes to the borough's high rates of Type 2 diabetes.

Type 2 diabetes is preventable and is strongly linked to being overweight. If not managed well, diabetes can lead to complications such as blindness, lower limb amputation, kidney failure, heart disease and stroke.

Type 2 is also the most common form of diabetes and tends to develop gradually, which can make spotting the signs difficult. In fact, 95 per cent of people living with diabetes in Tower Hamlets have Type 2 diabetes.

Regular symptoms for both types of diabetes include:

- increased urination

Wrighty hails the power of sport

BY JESSICA ODUBAYO

FOOTBALL legend Ian Wright hailed the power of sport to transform communities when he visited two events in Tower Hamlets.

Wright opened Footy4 Foodbanks, a charity tournament held at London Docklands Powerleague. The former Arsenal striker turned TV presenter led teams in a pre-game warm-up before kicking off the tournament in his role as an ambassador for grassroots sport.

Organisations from across the UK took part in the tournament, which was organised by housing association Poplar HARCA on behalf of the Trussell Trust, which works to provide emergency food to families in crisis.

The event raised more than £15,000 to support the trust.

David McAuley, chief executive of Trussell Trust, said: "What an exciting and engaging way to raise vital

The programme consists of nine months of intensive coaching and mentoring, designed to help young adults find a job or get into college. And the festival on June 11 gave students the chance to try out new sports and sign up to summer activities.

Wright said: "These young men and women are recruited face-to-face on some of the roughest estates in London. Nine months later, they believe in themselves and starting to make a real success of their lives.

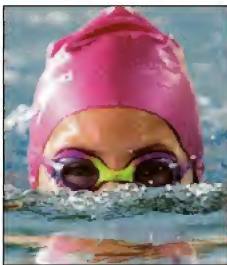

"It shows you the power of sport and great youth work."

There were 16 events and 16 finals throughout the day with freestyle, backstroke, breaststroke, butterfly and relay events for year 5 and 6 pupils.

Arif just can't stop running and it's all in aid of charity

YOU wouldn't blame Whitechapel resident Arif Uddin if he never wanted to run again.

He has taken part in nine gruelling events, covering some 200 kilometres, to raise money for first aid charity St John Ambulance.

Management consultant Arif, 28, started his 'runathon' challenge in January when he completed the Richmond Park 5K race.

He has since run a 10K event at the Olympic Park in Stratford, the North London Half Marathon, Regent's Park 10K and the Manchester Marathon, and in May he climbed England's highest mountain, Scafell Pike, in the Lake District.

His final three challenges were the Hackney Half Marathon, the Keswick Ultra Marathon and the Stockholm Marathon on May 30.

Arif said: "I wanted to do something that I could look back on and be proud of and something that would benefit a charity that does so much good work in local communities.

"St John Ambulance volunteers are so often the difference between life and death through using their first aid skills and teaching life-saving skills – so I couldn't think of a better cause to support."

Arif has raised more than £600 so far. Donations can be made online at www.justgiving.com/runathon

How to prevent accidents at home

LINKAge Plus ran a series of free events during Falls Awareness Week from June 15-21 and gave advice and videos on how to prevent accidents at home.

Falls are a common cause of injury in older people. Around one in three adults over 65 who live at home will have at least one fall a year, and about half of these will have more frequent accidents.

Around 1 in 2 people over 80 will fall at least once a year and, after having a fall, some older people can lose confidence, become withdrawn and may feel as if they have lost their independence.

Although most falls do not result in serious injury, broken bones are a common complication and a significant cause of pain, disability, emergency hospital admissions and long hospital stays.

Smear test may be a lifesaver

BY HELEN WATSON

HEALTH chiefs are urging women to attend their regular smear test.

Women aged between 25 and 64 are eligible for free NHS cervical screening (known as a smear test) every three to five years.

The test can detect changes in the cells of the cervix, which could be a sign of cancer.

Women, registered with a GP, who are eligible for the test will receive an appointment letter.

Around 70 per cent of women across east London who receive an invitation attend their appointment.

Every year, 3,000 women in the UK are diagnosed with cervical cancer. Cervical screening aims to detect abnormal cells so that they can be removed, preventing cancer developing in the first place. The earlier treatment is sought, the better the chances of survival.

Sir Sam Everington, GP and chair of NHS Tower Hamlets Clinical Commissioning Group, said: "When you are invited you should make it a priority to attend your smear test.

"This simple test can make such a big difference. The sooner cervical cancer is found and treated the better your chance of living a healthy, happy life."

If something unusual is found patients may be asked to undergo a further test, called a colposcopy. The clinics are run at new, specialist facilities at The Royal London Hospital.

The clinic sees 100 per cent of patients within the target eight weeks and 100 per cent of test results are returned within eight weeks of appointment.

Anna Parberry, lead nurse colposcopist at Barts Health NHS Trust, explained: "Many women avoid cervical screening as they worry what will happen 'if something bad is found'. That's where we come in.

"We'll assess their risk of developing cervical cancer and, if necessary, remove the problem cells in a simple procedure at an outpatient appointment in hospital.

"The truth is that for most women a test that shows a change in their cervical cells won't mean that they have cervical cancer. If it is cancer, it is always better to know and get treatment sooner rather than later."

Symptoms that can occur when people have cervical cancer include vaginal bleeding, abnormal discharge, and discomfort during sex or lower back pain.

People experiencing any of these symptoms should speak to their GP. However, cervical cancer often has no noticeable symptoms.

Diabetes rate rises

THE number of people with diabetes in Tower Hamlets has risen, according to figures released by charity Diabetes UK.

The figures, extracted from official NHS data, show that there were 14,916 adults registered with diabetes in 2013-2014, an increase of 4.9 per cent compared to the previous year.

Diabetes UK is calling on the NHS to ensure people living with diabetes are provided with the education and help to effectively manage their condition.

ASB decreases

THE number of anti-social behaviour (ASB) incidents has dramatically reduced thanks to a pilot scheme in Bethnal Green.

The council has been working to reduce the number of young people drinking alcohol and taking part in ASB.

The Community Alcohol Partnershi was formally established last April.

Following the year-long project, ASB rates were found to have dropped by 46 per cent and the number of alcohol seizures decreased by 87 per cent.

A VOLUNTEER who has given more than 45 years service to Stepney Jewish Day Centre was among a group introduced to HRH Prince William at the charity's 25th anniversary fund-raising dinner on Thursday, June 11. Barbara Waterman (pictured with the prince) has been volunteering since 1970 and involved in all aspects of the centre, from catering to entertainment. "I like the people, they are real characters – they are like family," Barbara said. The event was one of Prince William's first public appearances since the birth of his daughter, Princess Charlotte. And the Duke of Cambridge praised guests for their role in supporting older and vulnerable members of the community.

Villainy and treachery

On Blood's gravestone ran the epitaph: "Here lies the man who boldly hath run through, more villainies than England ever knew; and ne'er to any friend he had was true."

Got a story to tell?

If you have a tale about East End history, write to John Rennie or email him at johnrennie@gmail.com

WWW.EASTLONDONHISTORY.COM

History

BY JOHN RENNIE

THE East End has had its share of audacious thieves and robberies. After all, this was the home turf of the Krays, their mentor Billy Hill, Jack 'Spot' Comer and Arthur Harding.

And down the centuries, the bookies, pubs, clubs and banks of our borough have been the unwelcome focuses of attention from those characters – victims of assorted thefts, protection rackets, long frauds and blatant extortion.

But for sheer audacity, it's hard to beat an attempt to pinch the Crown Jewels. To do so, then to get caught and escape the chopping block – and to wind up being granted a pension from the King – would take a teflon-coated Houdini. But then Colonel Thomas Blood wasn't any ordinary thief.

In April 1671, a man dressed as a parson, accompanied by his 'wife', approached the Jewel House at the Tower of London and requested a viewing of the Crown Jewels.

In those days, the treasure house, located in the Martin Tower, wasn't open to the public, but could only be entered on request and on payment of a small fee.

The Master of the Jewels acquiesced, but no sooner had the pair entered the jewel room than the woman was taken ill with a stomach complaint. The anxious parson begged the newly appointed master, the 77-year-old Talbot Edwards, for a glass of brandy to settle her innards. And a dram was easy to come by... fortuitously, Edwards' apartment was just upstairs immediately above the jewel house.

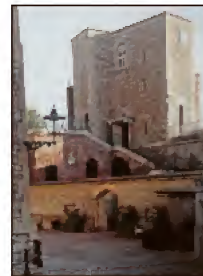

It was the beginning of a whirlwind friendship. Over the next few days, the parson (Blood in disguise of course) returned several times – bearing gifts of white gloves for Edwards' wife, returning again to share a drink with the hapless custodian, and eventually even arranging the betrothal of a fictitious nephew to the Edwards' niece (the boy would come with a small fortune, needless to say).

The cunning Colonel was playing a long game, and Edwards (succumbing to a potent mix of trust, flattery and his own greed) was being thoroughly played.

Then, on May 9, 1671, the Edwards' new pal was invited to dinner in the Martin Tower apartments. While Mrs Edwards prepared a delicious repast, the parson persuaded Talbot to conduct an impromptu viewing of the Crown Jewels below. Oh, and the clergyman had brought along that rich 'nephew' and two of his friends.

Entering the Jewel House, poor Edwards found darkness falling. The canes the men carried concealed rapiers; pistols were tucked in their pockets. A hood was thrown over Talbot's head, he was struck with a hammer, bound, gagged and stabbed.

The Crown Jewels heist that so nearly succeeded

Lieutenant of Ireland. Defeated, he fled to Holland, and took up arms against England in the Anglo-Dutch Wars.

By 1670, the arch trickster was, improbably, living in Essex and practising as an apothecary in Romford Market, under the name Ayloff.

Later that year he had another pop at his old adversary Ormonde. Blood and his gang dragged the unfortunate Duke from his carriage in St James', and sped on horseback along Piccadilly – Blood's plan was to lynch him at Tyburn.

Ormonde was at Charles' court, so he watched, apoplectic, as his King was charmed by Blood, pardoned him and his boys, and gave him a pension and lands in Ireland.

What possessed the King? Fear that Blood's men would turn against the Crown? Perhaps simply a fondness for a rogue with a good yarn.

There is even a theory that Charles, forever short of money, may have put Thomas up to the theft, planning to pocket the proceeds without the loss of face of selling his own Crown Jewels.

Most intriguing of all, according to a fascinating new book on Blood*, the crafty Colonel may have been a spy – a double agent who, while working for Charles, was involved in plots to murder him.

Whatever, Blood was now a fixture at Court, operating as an advocate in suits and petitions brought to the King. Cunning and with a quick tongue, he proved a success.

But his quick temper got him into trouble once more. In 1679, he fell out with his former patron, the Duke of Buckingham. The Duke sued Blood for libel, winning £10,000 damages – an enormous amount. Blood of course never paid, and was jailed.

Released in July 1680, the rogue died just a month later. He was 62. On his gravestone ran the epitaph: "Here lies the man who boldly hath run through, more villainies than England ever knew; and ne'er to any friend he had was true."

An accurate character appraisal. And the absolute truth can never be known about a larger than life figure – one whom a movie script writer would hesitate to invent, so improbable were his adventures.

But one can't help but have a sneaking regard for the man who, so nearly, pulled off the East End's greatest ever robbery.

The Audacious Crimes of Colonel Blood by Robert Hutchinson; orionbooks.co.uk hardback £20.

Now the three turned their attention to Charles II's Crown Jewels. Newly made for the Cavalier King's Coronation in 1661, as he returned to rule after the Interregnum, they made an impressive haul.

There was St Edward's Crown, made for the crowning of Charles in 1661 and of that for every monarch since, up to our own Elizabeth. Blood unceremoniously took up the mallet he'd used to bash Talbot and proceeded to flatten the diadem.

The Sceptre with the Cross had also been created for Charles – it was brutally sawn in two by Blood's brother in law, Hunt. And the Sovereign's Orb (which had cost Charles £1,150 to have made, around £150,000 in modern values) was stuffed down the trousers of Parrot, the third robber.

So far so brilliant, but then it all started to go wrong. Talbot, obviously a feisty 77-year-old, screamed: "Treason, murder, the crown is stolen!" and in rushed his son Wythe to lend assistance.

Blood and his boys fled to their waiting horses, but at St Catherine's Gate they were challenged by guards firing and wounding one. Blood, wrestled to the ground, cried: "It was a gallant attempt, however unsuccessful!" He then refused to speak to anyone below the King himself.

At which point, surely the gang should have paid with their lives. But the King, surveying the chained Colonel, demanded: "What if I should give you your life?" The captive replied: "I should endeavour to deserve it, sire."

Even more remarkable, Blood had previous with the Stuart family which might have ensured his execution. He had been born in Ireland, the son of a rich, land-owning Protestant – Blood senior was a blacksmith made very good indeed.

In 1642, Thomas had returned to England to join the Royalist forces against Oliver Cromwell but, seeing how the wind was blowing, had quickly switched to the Roundhead side. A grateful Cromwell had granted the self-styled 'Colonel' Blood land and even made him a Justice of the Peace.

The return of the monarchy saw Blood ruined, as all his lands went back to the Crown, and he fled to Ireland.

And in Ireland he proceeded to stir up trouble: uniting fellow ex-Cromwellians to storm Dublin Castle, and to kidnap for ransom the Duke of Ormonde, Lord

মালবারি গার্লস স্কুল পরিদর্শন করলেন আমেরিকার ফার্স্ট লেডি মিশেল ওবাম

Michelle Obama visits Mulberry School – pages 1 & 3

ইউনাইটেড স্টেট অব আমেরিকার ফার্স্ট লেডি এবং তাঁর দুই কন্যাকে সোমবার স্কুল ক্যাম্পাসে স্বাগত জানিয়েছে টাওয়ার হ্যামলেটসের একটি বালিকা বিদ্যালয়।

মেয়েদেরকে শিক্ষিত করে তোলার বিশ্বব্যাপি প্রচারাভিযান ‘লেটস্ গার্লস লার্ন’ ইনিশিয়েটিভ এর অংশ হিসেবে আমেরিকান ফার্স্ট লেডি মিশেল ওবামা টাওয়ার হ্যামলেটস্ এর মালবারি স্কুল ফর গার্লস পরিদর্শন করেন। এসময় তাঁর দুই মেয়ে সাশা ও মালিয়া ওবামাও সাথে ছিলেন। স্কুল ক্যাম্পাসে তাঁরা এসে পৌঁছালে স্টাফ এবং ছাত্রীরা বিপুল হর্ষোৎফুল্লতার সাথে তাদের স্বাগত জানান।

সারা বিশ্বের মেয়েরা যাতে করে তাদের শিক্ষা জীবন সম্পন্ন করতে পারে, তা নিশ্চিত করতে শিক্ষা সুবিধাদি আরো উন্নত করতে ইউকে এবং ইউএসএ কিভাবে যৌথভাবে কাজ করতে পারে তা নিয়ে আলোচনার জন্যই ‘লেটস্ গার্লস লার্ন’ উদ্যোগ নেয়া হয়েছে।

লেটস্ গার্লস লার্ন উদ্যোগ নেয়া হয়েছে এই কারণে যে, মেয়েরা যদি মান সম্পন্ন শিক্ষা পায় তাহলে সে মানসম্মত জীবন যাপনের মতো আয় করতে পারবে, স্বাস্থ্যসম্মত ও শিক্ষিত পরিবার গঠন এবং তার নিজের জীবন, পরিবার ও কমিউনিটির মান উন্নয়নে ভূমিকা রাখতে সক্ষম

হবে। মেয়েরা যাতে স্কুলে যায় এবং যথাযথভাবে শিক্ষা জীবন সম্পন্ন কওে, তা নিশ্চিত করতে সব ধরনের বাধা বিপত্তি অপসারণ করে সহযোগিতা করাই এই উদ্যোগের অন্যতম লক্ষ্য।

মিশেল ওবামা ২০০ মিলিয়ন ডলারের এই প্রকল্প উদ্বোধন আনুষ্ঠানিকভাবে উদ্বোধন করবেন। উন্নয়নশীল দেশগুলোর মেয়েরা যাতে শিক্ষা সুবিধা থেকে বঞ্চিত না হয়, সেজন্য গৃহিত এই প্রকল্পে অর্থায়ন করেছে আমেরিকা এবং যুক্তরাজ্য।

মালবারি স্কুল পরিদর্শনের সময় মিশেল ওবামা স্কুলের শিক্ষার্থীদের প্রশংসা করে বলেন, তোমাদের কারণেই আজ আমি এখানে এসেছি। তোমাদের মত মেয়েরাই আমাকে অনুপ্রাণিত করে। তোমাদের আগ্রহ এবং অধ্যবসায় নিয়ে আমি গর্বিত। নিজদের শিক্ষা জীবন সাফল্যের সাথে সম্পন্ন করতে তোমরা কঠোর পরিশ্রম করে যাচ্ছে। তোমাদের কাহিনীর সাথে আমারও জীবন কাহিনীর মিল আছে নানা ভাবে।

মিসেস ওবামা তাঁর নিজের শৈশব নিয়ে কথা বলেন। টাওয়ার হ্যামলেটসের মতো শিকাগোর একটি শহরে কর্মজীবী পরিবারে তার জন্ম ও বেড়ে ওঠার কাহিনী শোনান। তাঁর বাবা ছিলেন পাম্প চালক এবং মা গৃহিণী। তিনি ও তাঁর ভাই ছোট্ট একটি ঘরে গাদাগাদি করে থাকতেন এবং ছোট্ট সেই বাড়িতে আত্মীয় স্বজনদের আসা যাওয়ার

কারণে স্কুলের হোমওয়ার্ক সমাপ্ত করতে তাদের ভাই-বোনের অনেক বেগ পেতে হতো।

তিনি বলেন, ঐ সময় নিজস্ব গোপনীয়তা তেমন ছিলোনা এবং হোমওয়ার্কের দিকে মনোযোগ দেয়াটা ছিলো খুবই কঠিন। হোমওয়ার্ক শেষ করার জন্য আমি ভোর ৪টায় ঘুম থেকে উঠতাম, আর ঐ সময়টাই ঘরটা থাকতো শান্ত নীরব।

মিসেস ওবামা বলেন, আমি জানি অনেককেই হয়তো ঘরের পরিবেশে বিভ্রান্তির মধ্যে পড়ে যাও, লেখাপড়ার কোন মানে আছে কি না ভাবো। এটা মনে রাখতে এই স্কুল থেকে যে শিক্ষা পাচ্ছে, তা তোমার সবগুলো স্বপ্ন পূরণে সাহায্য করবে।

টাওয়ার হ্যামলেটসের নতুন মেয়র, জন বিগস বলেন, আমেরিকার ফার্স্ট লেডি কর্তৃক বারার অসাধারণ স্কুলগুলোর একটি পরিদর্শনে আসা নিঃসন্দেহে অনন্য। বড় ধরনের উন্নয়ন কর্মসূচি বাস্তবায়নের ফলে আমাদের স্কুলগুলো এখন অন্তর্জাতিকভাবে স্বীকৃত এবং কিছু কিছু ক্ষেত্রে দেশের মধ্যে সেরা রেজাল্ট অর্জনের স্বাক্ষর রেখে চলেছে। তিনি বলেন, বারার কিছু অনুপ্রেরণীয় তরুণ বয়সীদের কাছে ফার্স্ট লেডির সাথে এই সাক্ষাত স্মরণীয় হয়ে থাকবে এবং তারা শিক্ষা জীবন ও কর্মজীবনে আরো সাফল্য অর্জনে ফার্স্ট লেডির এই পরিদর্শনকে প্রণোদনা হিসেবে কাজে লাগাবে।

স্কুলে ভলান্টিয়ার্স হিসেবে কাজের প্রশিক্ষণ নিলেন অভিভাবকরা

Parents go back to education – page 7

টাওয়ার হ্যামলেটস্ কাউন্সিলের একটি প্রকল্পের কারণে ছেলেমেয়েদের স্কুলে ষ্বেচ্ছাসেবী হিসেবে কাজ করার সুযোগ পাচ্ছেন বারার অভিভাবকরা।

কাউন্সিলের এই প্রকল্পটি বাস্তবায়ন করেছে বারার স্কুলগুলো। ৩৫ জন অভিভাবক ও কেয়ারার ১১ সপ্তাহব্যাপি কর্মশালায় অংশ নিয়ে বাচ্চাদের স্কুলে ভলান্টিয়ার হিসেবে কাজ করার সক্ষমতা ও দক্ষতা অর্জন করেন। সকল অভিভাবক এসেছেন স্টুয়ার্ট হেডলাম

প্রাইমারী স্কুল, সেন্ট পিটার্স লন্ডন ডকস্ প্রাইমারী স্কুল, মালবারী গার্লস স্কুল থেকে।

এই কর্মসূচির মূল লক্ষ্য হচ্ছে, স্কুলগুলোতে দায়িত্বশীল প্রাপ্তবয়স্কদের সংখ্যা বাড়ানোর পাশাপাশি অভিভাবকদের দক্ষতা বাড়ানো সাহায্য করা, যাতে করে ভবিষ্যতে তাদের জন্য কর্মসংস্থানের সুযোগ আরো সম্প্রসারিত হয়। স্কুলে ষ্বেচ্ছাসেবী হিসেবে তাদের দায়িত্ব হচ্ছে, শ্রেণীকক্ষে সহযোগিতা করা, বাচ্চাদের সাথে বই

পড়া, ট্রিপের সময় বাচ্চাদের নিরাপত্তার সাথে আনা-নেওয়া করা, স্কুল লাইব্রেরীতে সহযোগিতা করা, আফটার-স্কুল ও ব্রেকফাস্ট ক্লাব পরিচালনায় ভূমিকা রাখা।

গত ৯ জুন গ্রেটোরেক্স স্ট্রিটের প্যারেন্টস্ এডভাইস সেন্ট্রামে ১১ সপ্তাহের কর্মশালায় প্রোড্রামে অনুষ্ঠিত হয়। এসময় অংশগ্রহণকারী অভিভাবকদের মধ্যে সার্টিফিকেট বিতরণ করা হয়।

REFUGEE Week celebrates the contribution of refugees to the UK and promotes better understanding of why people seek sanctuary.

In Tower Hamlets, there was particular focus on 19 Princelet Street, Spitalfields – the Grade II* Listed building which houses a European first – the Museum of Immigration and Diversity.

Public openings of the museum are rare – the building, although beautiful, is fragile and falling down in parts.

On East End Life's visit, a group of year nine students were learning about the diversity of refugee communities that have lived in and helped build and shape the history of the borough, from Huguenots to Jewish, Irish, Polish, Bangladeshi, Caribbean and Somali settlers.

Two exhibitions – Suitcases and Sanctuary and Leave to Remain – created by nine- and ten-year-old pupils at Harry Gosling, St Paul's, Christchurch, Hague, English Martyrs and Kobi Nazrul primary schools – provide much food for thought.

Artists, poets and actors worked with the children to create what chair of trustees Susie Symes describes as the only museum created by children for adults.

The building was a private house for many years and was built by the refugee Huguenot Peter Abraham Ogier, one of around 50,000 Protestants who fled persecution in France.

As visitors enter the former silk merchant's home they step into another world. There is an exhibition space and a hidden Victorian synagogue, where visitors encounter diaries, poems, letters, sound scopes and objects depicting the stories of migrants, from fleeing war to missing home comforts.

Some of the first meetings of the anti-fascist groups which took part in the Battle of Cable Street were held at the house and details can be seen inside the museum.

Pupils from Forest School listen to refugee

Ms Symes explained that migration is not a new story and that UK society has been shaped by its past as a country of settlement. "I think of London as a bit of tapestry with common threads running through it," she said.

Ms Symes said 19 Princelet Street highlights centuries of human stories, our shared humanity through the story of migration.

"Nobody would be where they are now without migration," she told visitors.

"Some of the greatest companies were set up by refugees. The first governor of the Bank of England was a Huguenot. Spitalfields silk was invented by Huguenots and Irish immigrants set up many social enterprises and free schools."

Ms Symes told students that the gifts, awareness and flexibility that migration has brought helped make London a great place.

The building is being preserved by the work of charity The Spitalfields Centre. The group has more than 300 volunteers from a variety of backgrounds, whose ages range from six to 94.

The charity is working to preserve 19 Princelet Street and to create a permanent exhibition and educational resource telling the stories of the people who arrived in east London and helped create our society.

In a bid to carry out repair work, the charity is seeking financial support from the Heritage Lottery Fund.

The great outdoors

BY JESSICA ODUBAYO

TEN days of outdoor arts – including street theatre, dance and acrobatics – are set to entertain audiences across east London and on the south side of the river as part of this year's Greenwich and Docklands Festival.

The festival runs from June 26 until July 5 and features free events for people of all ages.

On June 27, Bethnal Green Gardens will host 451, a spectacular, immersive performance which depicts a society where reading is forbidden and firemen are employed to burn books (451 degrees Fahrenheit is the temperature at which paper burns).

The London premiere is inspired by the classic novel Fahrenheit 451, by Ray Bradbury, and will feature moving structures and pyrotechnics. The performance starts at 10pm.

Festival audiences are invited to journey across the parks, piazzas, open spaces and waterfronts of Canary Wharf between June 29 and July 4, for Dancing City, a series of outdoor dance performances.

The extravaganza will offer bite-sized al fresco treats from UK and international dance companies.

Outdoor dance performances will take place at Canary Wharf

Encounter everything from the mesmerising footwork of New Zealand Maori Haka, to fluid and fearless parkour as well as nostalgic 1950s tap and powerful contemporary dance.

Festival events are also being held at Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park and various venues in Greenwich.

All performances are free. The festival offers BSL, captioning and audio description services at a number of performances, in addition to step-free access to shows and accessible toilets on site.

Eating out, eating in Beagle's fresh fare is about as good as it gets

BY AVARICIOUS ARCHIE

AS the storm clouds gather ominously, I make a quick dash into Beagle restaurant, behind the Geffrye Museum.

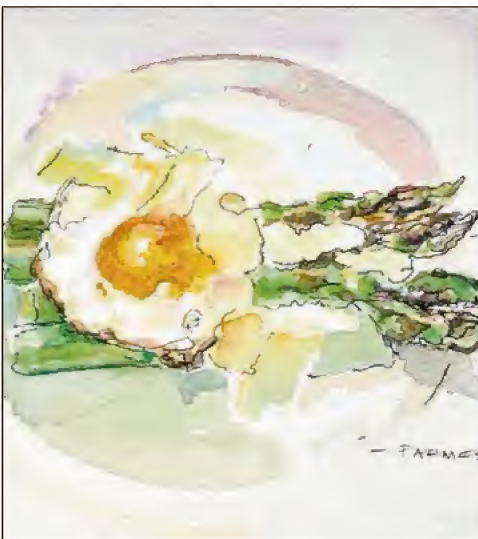

Technically just outside of Tower Hamlets, Beagle is staffed by creative, knowledgeable and passionate chefs, serving wholesome and hearty dishes with an accent on flavour.

On this particular day, my companion, who is of an artistic bent, fancied producing drawings of the food on offer.

Wanting to give himself something pretty to sketch, he plumped for grilled asparagus with fried egg and parmesan shavings followed by skate with Iberico tomatoes. I decided upon rustic-sounding lentils with meatballs.

The service was exemplary with both the kitchen and front-of-house staff seamlessly managing the unusual situation of a diner who wants to draw the food before eating it.

This requires excellent time management and bodes well for

My companion had grilled asparagus and fried egg followed by skate with Iberico tomatoes how they would deal with more run-of-the-mill situations in my humble opinion.

The artist's starter arrived promptly and, even after the time it took to draw, was pronounced a success with the freshness of the ingredients self-evident.

Our main courses saw fresh, seasonal produce come to the fore. I have been fortunate to have experienced some pretty high end establishments in my time and I would say the food at Beagle is right up there.

A simple dish of lentils with meatballs was turned in to a truly memorable experience. Everything served a purpose and was well-seasoned with a deep rich sauce to die for.

My artistic lunch pest was equally effervescent about his skate, cooked to melt-in-your-mouth perfection and a real taste of the sea.

A return visit is on the cards very soon. Beagle has a changing menu, taking into account seasonal variations in produce.

It is not cheap – lunch was just under £50, including drinks.

But it is a great place to dine during the week and at week-ends. They have live jazz on a Sunday evening, when only snacks are available.

Beagle is at 397-400 Geffrye Street, E2. Tel: 7613 2967

Cordial invitation to brew your own

STEPNEY City Farm constantly surprises. One such surprise was having an unpromising pile of muddy roots dropped onto my kitchen counter.

What else can you do when dandelion and burdock drop into your lap than make a cordial?

After much experimenting, this is the recipe we stick with at the farm.

Far from traditional, but definitely delicious, it's the perfect thirst quencher this summer.

Dandelion and burdock – serves 4

Ingredients

2 litres of water
55g dandelion root
75g burdock root
5 star anise
2 sticks of cinnamon

1 nutmeg (grated)
Zest of a lemon
1 thumb of ginger, chopped)
20g citric acid
500g light brown sugar

Method

1. This recipe could not be simpler! Take all of your ingredients and place in a large, heavy-based pan.
2. On a low heat, dissolve the sugar. Once dissolved turn up the heat slightly and bring to a simmer.
3. Cook at a gentle simmer for around an hour, letting all the ingredients get to know each other. Take off the heat and leave to cool.
4. Simply strain and there you have it – your very own cordial. Dilute to taste and serve over ice.

Sprucing up Tobacco Dock

BY STEFAN SWIFT

A HUNDRED volunteers from CitiBank joined residents to help clean Tobacco Dock in Wapping on Saturday, June 13.

It was the first phase of the council's Wapping Ornamental Canal enhancement project.

The volunteers helped clean the dock area, making improvements including painting, clearing litter and constructing nesting platforms, bird and bat boxes.

The changes are being made to improve the space and enrich the area, attracting new wildlife and encouraging residents and visitors to take in the delights of their neighbourhood.

The project follows consultation with residents and the council's clean and green team.

The day was led by council officers with help from Bow Landscapes and volunteers.

The council is always seeking enthusiastic individuals to volunteer to make their area better. You can make a difference in your neighbourhood, gain new skills and experience, meet new people, get fitter, feel better and improve your local environment by volunteering.

Planting and gardening, painting out graffiti, litter picking, creating gardens out of waste grounds or maintenance are just some of the jobs that need doing in the community.

All equipment including gloves and tools will be supplied.

To find out more about cleaner, greener volunteering call 7364 6696 or email cgv@towerhamlets.gov.uk

Wapping ladies rub salt into Redbridge wounds

BY PETER FAULKNER

WAPPING ladies A team were the last side that Redbridge wanted to face in the Summer League after they suffered a 4-1 beating in their last encounter.

And their fears proved well founded when the two sides clashed again, as Wapping this time dished out a 5-0 hammering to climb to the top of the Redbridge Summer League.

Once again it was Carole Date-Chong who proved the difference between the two sides, this time with a superb hat-trick.

Lotta Paulus, making her debut for Wapping summer league team, opened the scoring with a spectacular aerial shot in the opening minutes of the game, before Date-Chong got in on the act to double the lead.

As the first-half continued, the Wapping defence barely broke a sweat. Emma Field, Paulus and Chrissie Eckhart in the mid-field pressed high, ensuring plenty of goalscoring opportunities, although the Redbridge defence held firm.

Two up at half-time was not as emphatic a scoreline as that of the previous week, so after a rallying half-time team talk by captain Nina Belk, Wapping set out to step things up after the break.

Jess Frith and Date-Chong shone in an action-packed second half, which saw both players grounded by the Redbridge goalkeeper; one of these tackles earning Frith a penalty flick, which she failed to convert.

But Frith made amends soon after when she scored a cracking goal from an almost impossibly tight angle.

Date-Chong rounded off the match with two classy goals, one in the dying minutes of the game, which delivered the best win of the summer season for the Wapping side and earned them the top spot in the league.

Results: Wapping ladies B 1 Crostyx 2; Wapping men's B 2 Waltham Forest A 0; Wapping men's A 0 Crostyx 1.

Mercy eighth in the world juniors

Weightlifting

TEENAGER Mercy Brown is targeting the world championships at the end of the year as the event that could earn her a ticket to the Rio Olympics.

The Poplar youngster, who celebrated her 19th birthday at the weekend, added to her growing reputation with eighth place in the junior world championships in Wroclaw, Poland, on June 13.

Mercy is desperate to represent Team GB in Brazil next year, but is still short of the required qualification points.

She said: "I have no doubt I will get that qualification total – I know I'm fully capable of that."

"The 2020 Olympic Games in Tokyo is there to aim for, but it would be a shame for me to be this close to the next Games and not get there. So hopefully I will be at Rio next year."

Next up for Mercy are the British junior championships at Crystal Palace in August.

Trio eye top spot at youth finals

Table tennis

TOWER Hamlets' young table tennis players have once again taken the London Youth Games by storm and it has earned them a place in the finals of Europe's largest youth sports event.

The borough's brilliant trio – all from Bethnal Green's Morpeth School – were Murhad Hussain, Antony Lynch and Jamie Dignum who dominated the qualifying rounds at the Balfour Beatty London Youth Games on June 14.

The team put on a super show beating former champions Wandsworth 5-0 and Ealing 4-1 at Redbridge Leisure Centre.

They are now confident that they can pull off another shock at the finals at Crystal Palace on July 4-5.

Team manager Simon Hoang praised his side saying: "It's a very good achievement and we are looking forward to playing the finals."

"We wouldn't enter if we were not going for the first spot."

The London Youth Games is Europe's largest annual youth sports event and is one of the driving forces for increased participation in competitive sport and volunteering among young Londoners.

A record 126,897 people took part in the 2014 games, taking the event to more than one million participants since it launched in 1977.

Olivia chasing Olympic dream

BY PETER FAULKNER

OLIVIA Piechota has achieved one of her dreams by qualifying for both the European Judo Championships and the Youth Olympics.

It is a fine achievement in its own right, but Olivia also hopes that it proves to be a stepping stone on her way to landing a place in the full Great Britain squad for the 2020 Olympic Games in Tokyo.

To get there, the 16-year-old member of Tower Hamlets Judo Club showed her class in the Cadet European Judo Cup, in Bielsko Biala, Poland.

This was the last of the European Cup events this season. Olivia has competed in four, winning medals every time.

But the competition in Poland was the most important so far with more than 500 competitors from 29 countries battling it out for World and European

Olivia on her way to yet another victory in Poland

Judo Federation ranking points.

Olivia competed in the Cadets category (under-17) and she was not only very well prepared, but more determined than ever to win.

And that combination proved irresistible as Olivia claimed the gold, defeating Slovakian Dominika Kincelova in the semi-final and Hungarian Andrea Karman in the final.

She won all four of her contests scoring ippon – ultimate point – displaying excellent throwing and grappling skills.

The talented judoka has shown once again why, even at such a tender age, she is real championship material.

RAMADAN KAREEM

BEITY – A HOME FOR SYRIA'S CHILD REFUGEES

"Mother, father, sister, brother, where are you? Where are you?" Sang three year old Sara. "I want to see you; I want to see you, every day. Every day", she continued, blushing with a smile that belied the sad reality of her words. This is because Sara lost her father in Syria, and her mother to the mental trauma that followed. Along with her four siblings, she now resides at Beity, a home for children orphaned by Syria's ongoing conflict.

When Muslim Aid visited the Beity orphanage which it runs in partnership with the Maram Foundation last June, the former restaurant building was still being renovated. Thanks to the generosity of Muslim Aid's donors, Beity is now a home with space for up to 100 children to live and reclaim the childhood that was violently snatched away from them. It is a place where the kids sleep, play, study and eat freshly cooked Syrian meals; flavours from a place that some of the children are perhaps too young to remember; Mujadara, Maqlooba, freshly baked khobez.

"This place is different", said Yakzan Shishakly, Director of the Maram Foundation, the charity that runs the Beity orphanage. "They feel like they are at home. They come inside and they don't feel shy." The joy displayed by the kids at Beity, however, is only a testament to the progress achieved by its dedicated family of volunteers. Beneath many of the smiles are deep scars, the mental wounds caused by the trauma of war. Many had seen its horrors first hand, whilst others had been exposed to the desperate acts that their parents had sadly turned to in order to make ends meet. Some had even been abused and neglected after their families were torn apart.

At Beity the children are given a chance to achieve their ambitions. Thirteen-year-old Ruba is one of the home's eldest children; a girl whose eyes shine with optimism and strength. "For most of my childhood, my father was unwell. Before he died, he used to say to me 'grow up quickly, I want you to become a doctor one day'", Ruba explained. "He gave me the affection that I couldn't get from my mum because she died when I was very young", she continued as her eyes began to reveal some of the pain that she bore inside, "that's why I love him and remember him all the time."

Three-year-old Ahmad plays with Thabrez from Muslim Aid at Beity

At Beity Ruba now finds the support needed to realise her father's dream. Attending a local school in the mornings, Ruba comes home to Beity where she can study and relax in a clean and safe environment. "If I don't understand any work from school, I bring my books back to Beity and the teachers here always help and explain in a way that is easy for me to understand."

Whilst many of Syria's child refugees are out of education and facing the grim reality of the refugee camps, the children of Beity are amongst a fortunate few. They are still able to study, play freely and enjoy some degree of comfort. Despite having been through the pain of war, they remain confident, bright and hopeful. Thanks to the generosity and support of Muslim Aid's donors, these children now have a place they can truly call home. With the right support and care, they can recover, rebuild and achieve their dreams.

This Ramadan, Muslim Aid will continue working to empower and uplift the world's poorest communities. From Palestine and Yemen to Nepal, Myanmar, Sudan and many places beyond, we are providing long term solutions to poverty through projects in healthcare, education, clean water and sanitation and emergency aid. When you donate this Ramadan, you can be sure that through our vast experience in humanitarian work, your money will be used to serve those most in need.
